An Adventure

After researching the history of the palace, and comparing notes of their experience, they published their work in a book entitled An Adventure, under the names of Elizabeth Morison and Frances Lamont, in 1911. Their story caused a sensation, and was subject to much ridicule. This is the book they wrote under anonymous names a year later.

The Moberly-Jourdain incident is a claim of time travel and hauntings made by Charlotte Anne Moberly and Eleanor Jourdain. In 1911, Moberly and Jourdain published a book entitled An Adventure under the names of "Elizabeth Morison" and "Frances Lamont". Their book describes a visit they made to the Petit Trianon, a small château in the grounds of the Palace of Versailles, where they claimed to have seen the gardens as they had been in the late eighteenth century as well as ghosts ...

An Adventure Poem by Louise Gluck - Poem Hunter

An adventure is usually regarded as an accident, whereas an expedition is an organized journey undertaken by a group of explorers with a defined objective. So, we could say that the story of Jason and the Argonauts is an expedition full of many adventures. Roald Amundsen is famous for saying: "Adventure is just bad planning."
