Booker T. Washington, shown above, in 1911. (Booker T. Washington was many things: he was a public orator who is famous for his speeches (more on that later); he was an educator who began one of the most famous and earliest black colleges, the Tuskegee Institute; and he was a big time philanthropist who was responsible for directing mass amounts of money to black causes following the Civil War ...

Document A: Booker T. Washington (ORIGINAL)

Booker T. Washington's persona tends to remind us of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. By being less threatening to whites than alternative philosophies allowed, both Washington and King could appeal to both African-Americans and moderate whites thus straddling the racial divide and significantly increasing their influence.
