What Executive Coaching Is . An executive coach is a qualified professional that works with individuals (usually executives, but often high-potential employees) to help them gain self-awareness, clarify goals, achieve their development objectives, unlock their potential, and act as a sounding board. They are not consultants or therapists (although many have consulting or therapist backgrounds) and usually refrain from giving advice or solving their clients' problems.

To understand what an executive coach is, we first must take a look at the definition of coaching. According to the International Coach Federation (ICF), coaching is defined as a partnership with clients in a thought-provoking and creative process that inspires them to maximize their personal and professional potential. Coaching is a client-driven process that's distinct from other service professions, such as counseling, mentoring, consulting and training.

Coaching employees involves teaching them how to arrive at a solution on their own. It's about teaching critical-thinking skills that lead to self-reliance instead of just falling back on the boss. Managing is typically a one-way street; coaching relies on open communication in both directions (employee to supervisor and supervisor to employee).
