Two years later and with the ultra-modern CX-7 now in its arsenal, Mazda ended Tribute imports and left Ford to soldier on alone with a 2.3-litre, auto-only version of the Escape. Restyling delivered a mildly modernised look but the basic shape and internal dimensions didn't change at all.

I have a 2002 Mazda Tribute ES 3.0 L V6 I need to change the intake manifold everything I've researched seems to point to the Escape, Mariner and Tribute sharing the same engine for this model

Escape V6 3.0L intake manifold used part as a replacement part when I search on the Tribute). I haven't been able to find a definitive answer
